Bombing Aimed at Creating a Commotion

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The home of a Negro student here was bombed to cause "commotion and a lot of publicity," an FBI agent testified today in the trial of Herbert Odell Monts, 17-year-old Negro charged in the blast.

The agent, Milford L. Runnels, said Monts cited commotion and publicity when asked why he participated in the Feb. 9 bombing of the home of Carlotta Walls, 16, a student at integrated Central High.

The trial of Monts, a friend of the Walls' family, went into its second day today. Runnels' testimony paralleled statements made yesterday by Detective A. L. Halcumb.

Another Negro, Maceo Antonio Bous, 31, also has been charged in the bombing. He will be tried separately.

Runnels read to the all-white jury of seven men and five women the text of three alleged statements made by Monts after his arrest. The statements differed in some details.

Monts' remarks about publicity were not in the statements.

Both Runnels and Halcumb said these were made orally.

Cool Weather Retards Growth

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Unseasonably cool weather has retarded growth of all crops in Arkansas, the federal-state Crop Reporting Service said today.

The agency said in its weekly crop report that cold weather has necessitated heavy replanting of cotton and some replanting of rice, soybeans and corn.

In some locations a shortage of seed is delaying replanting of cotton.

All sections except the southwest have adequate moisture to meet crop needs, the report said. Strawberries are ripening slowly because of cool weather but already the crops are being harvested in all sections except the northwest. Searcy and White Counties expect a peak in strawberry picking this week.

Orders Mixed Classes in New Orleans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The ordering of desegregated classes in New Orleans' schools highlighted today's sixth anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in the nation's public schools.

U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright directed public schools in the Louisiana city to desegregate next September.

The judge had advised the Orleans Parish School Board to submit a desegregation plan "or I'll have one for you."

Gerald Rault, school board attorney, told the court Monday the board had not prepared a plan because it believed "that it does not have the right to do so" under state law.

The judge then issued his order. In Atlanta, Negro student leaders were uncertain whether to go ahead with plans for an integration sympathy march on the Georgia Capitol in the face of a stern warning by Gov. Ernest Vandiver. The governor said he would not tolerate "demonstrations which might incite violence and riots."

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, issued a statement in New York in connection with the anniversary of the Supreme Court ruling.

He said that six years after that decision only 6 of every 100 Negro children in South and border states attend integrated classes.

Another Negro integration leader, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., protested his being placed on trial in a segregated courtroom in Montgomery, Ala., would violate his constitutional rights.

"That action and other pre-trial motions led to postponement until Wednesday of the minister's arraignment on charges of filing false state income tax returns."

Twenty-four Negro students—four of them girls—were arrested during a sitdown at a lunch counter for white persons at the S.H. Kress & Co. store in Chattanooga, Tenn.

In Detroit, the S. S. Kresge Co. said its policy is not to file complaints against sit-in demonstrators at its variety store lunch counters in the South. The company said it is obeying laws and customs in Southern cities where integration is prohibited.

Light Voting in Maryland Primary

BALTIMORE (AP)—Light voting early today marked the Democratic presidential primary in which Sen. John P. Kennedy (D-Mass) was a heavy favorite to pick up Maryland's 24 nominating votes.

Even Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), his only major opponent, admitted he did not expect to stop Kennedy here.

Election officials in Baltimore said the vote was extremely light and at the present rate would amount to less than 30 per cent of the registered voters. Reports from the counties indicated the same indifference.

Wants Railway to Resume

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett today asked the Arkansas Commerce Commission to force the Arkansas and Ozarks Railroad to resume operation.

Bennett told the commission in a telegram he was advised the railroad stopped shipments in the northwest Arkansas area it serves about 10 days ago because of recent washouts of portions of the track.

Patrons of the line are "indignant and resentful at the present negative attitude of the railroad's management. They are pursuing alleged dilatory tactics in not making repairs on damaged track," said Bennett, a gubernatorial candidate.

The Arkansas and Ozarks runs from Seligman, Mo., to Harrison with branches to Berryville and Eureka Springs.

Bennett said the railroad's inaction was causing hardship to patrons. "It amounts to virtual abandonment without permission from your agency," Bennett said. There was no immediate comment from the Commerce Commission.

ESD Office Rifled Amid Political Probe

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today that three desks had been rifled in the state office of the Employment Security Division, which is under a federal investigation in connection with an alleged political shake-down.

"Coming at a time like this, it is very suspicious," Faubus said.

Faubus said one desk was that of ESD Administrator James L. Bland. He didn't identify the other two.

Representatives of the federal Civil Service Commission were sent to Little Rock recently after Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett, who is running against Faubus for governor, charged that ESD employees were being pressured to contribute to the Faubus campaign fund in violation of federal law — a charge that both Faubus and Bland denied.

The CSC at Washington said its men were here but didn't identify them and has disclosed no further details.

Faubus said the desks, other than that of Bland, had been locked.

He didn't say when the rifling took place, or whether anything was stolen.

Faubus charged that the CSC operatives were using "improper methods."

"Employees have been called at night and on the Sabbath," he said. "Attempts have been made to place words in the mouths of the employees and statements already prepared have been submitted, instead of allowing employees to make their own."

"Since the investigation has been started, I will demand that it continue until all the some 600 employees have been interviewed," Faubus said.

The governor said he planned to telegraph Washington to instruct the investigators to "talk to every one of the ESD employees and not just a disgruntled few."

The ESD is financed with federal funds but operated by the state.

Bennett's only comment when told of Faubus' remarks was "the hit dog always howls."

Bland later said there were two SCC investigations whom he named as Clarence Tani and John Earman.

He said he believed that Tani already had gone and that Earman was returning to Washington today.

Russians Rally Against Flights

MOSCOW (AP)—Rallies denouncing American spy flights were reported today from major Soviet cities as the Soviet press intensified its indignation campaign against the United States.

The Communist party organ Pravda said the people demonstrated in Moscow, Leningrad, Stalingrad, Kiev and many other cities, blasting "reactionary circles" in America.

The general tone of the papers indicated that the Soviet press and radio would continue to build up feeling. Speculation increased that the stage was being set for a show trial of Francis G. Powers, pilot of the American U2 plane downed on May Day 1,400 miles inside Soviet territory.

Audit Shows Garland Fund Overspent

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Garland County road fund was overspent by $8,154 last year, a state comptroller's office audit shows.

The audit cited a state constitutional amendment which requires governmental units to live within their income in noting the excess expenditures.

Auditors also said that operation of the county road department cost nearly $100,000 more in the year County Judge H. C. Warren, now suspended, was in office, than in 1958. The report also said that in some respects the law hadn't been followed in preparing assessment lists and that the lists were missing for years from 1952 through 1955.

A number of examples were cited by the auditors to show that assessment lists often showed a different assessment than the records in the collector's office.

Warren, who has been indicted along with resigned Tax Collector Ray Owen and several other persons, was assessor before he became county judge in 1959. He has been suspended from office pending trial on the indictments for irregularities in office. Both he and Owen have denied the charges.

Officials Show No Sign of Meeting Term

PARIS (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev insisted today there can be no summit conference unless the United States apologizes and punishes those responsible for the U2 flight.

"We won't attend a conference as long as the Americans will not give us satisfaction," he said.

He made his stand three times today—in two informal interviews and in a statement issued through the Soviet Embassy. The United States, meantime, showed no sign of meeting the Soviet leader's demands by going beyond President Eisenhower's disclosure Monday that U.S. spy flights over the Soviet Union are discontinued.

Khrushchev's formal statement said:

"I am ready to participate in a meeting with President de Gaulle of France, Prime Minister Macmillan of Great Britain and U.S. President Eisenhower to exchange views on whether conditions have materialized to start the summit conference."

"If the United States have really come to the decision to condemn the treacherous incursion of American military aircraft into the air space of the Soviet Union, publicly express regrets over these incursions, punish those who are guilty and give assurance that such incursions will not be repeated in the future, we would be ready on the receipt of such assurance to participate in the summit conference."

This statement seemed to mean that the Soviet premier was willing to get together with the Western Big Three, but that any such session could deal only with his preliminary demands.

His maneuver appeared to be primarily an attempt to shift the blame for breaking up the summit conference to Eisenhower this afternoon and invited Khrushchev to sit with them.

He scorned the invitation but 45 minutes later issued his statement putting the issue up to Eisenhower.

It was announced earlier that Khrushchev would hold a news conference today but this was called off simultaneously with the issue of the Soviet Premier's statement.

De Gaulle issued his invitation to today's session at the suggestion of Macmillan.

Motorcycle messengers vainly sped the invitation to Szeged, about 75 miles from Paris, where Khrushchev had gone on a motor tour.

"Gen. de Gaulle knows my position," Khrushchev said then. "He knows very well that we won't attend a conference as long as the Americans will not give us satisfaction."

A bit earlier, in a sidewalk interview, Khrushchev said he was ready to return to Moscow if his demands were not accepted.

Macmillan arrived first at De Gaulle's Elysee Palace for the Big Three meeting. He was six minutes early. Then Eisenhower drove into the palace courtyard.

Khrushchev—back from his trip—stayed at the Soviet Embassy.

The Big Three waited a while, then went on without him.

Khrushchev had stated his intentions in his formal morning news conference on the Rue de Grenelle near the Soviet Embassy.

Thinks Reds to Hold Up on Berlin

PARIS (AP) — The West German government was reported today to believe that the Soviet Union will hold back on any early attempt to force the Western powers out of West Berlin regardless of what happens at the summit.

This assessment of the position of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government came shortly after the arrival here of Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano. He came to discuss what Adenauer considers "a very serious state of affairs."

The Germans were said to believe that in proposing a six-to-eight-month recess in the summit conference, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was "extending the Berlin crisis for at least that long."

said he would not attend.

Both President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain had agreed to participate.

Khrushchev made known his reaction in an interview over a European radio station at Szeged, a town about 7 miles from Paris. He had gone there on a motor trip.

"Gen. De Gaulle knows my position," Khrushchev said. "He knows very well that we won't attend a conference as long as the Americans will not have given us satisfaction."

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

PARIS (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev declared today that, unless President Eisenhower apologizes for the U.S. spy flight over the Soviet Union and "admits America made aggression against the Soviet people," the summit conference will not start and "I will return home."

The Soviet Premier made his declaration in an impromptu sidewalk news conference. He strolled out of the Soviet embassy with Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, the Soviet defense minister, for a morning walk.

Asked if he was willing to meet with Eisenhower, Khrushchev replied: "If the President wants to meet me, I will be glad to meet him."

In response to another question, Khrushchev said he would hold a news conference before leaving Paris.

"I will not leave without having contacted you," he told the newsmen.

Khrushchev added the news conference "may be today or it may be tomorrow," indicating his time of departure was still uncertain.

Despite the grim prospect for the summit negotiations, Khrushchev was in an ebullient mood, laughing with the newsmen, raising his hands in salute at the request of photographers, and posing with a wide toothy grin.

He said that on his way home to Moscow he would stop off in East Berlin to see Walter Ulbricht, secretary of the East German Communist party.

Khrushchev's insistence on an apology from Eisenhower and an admission that the U.S. spy flights constituted aggression appeared to doom the summit conference, for it was considered certain Eisenhower would go no further than his announcement that the American flights over Soviet territory had been suspended and would not be resumed.

Eisenhower was to meet this morning with French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to survey the wreckage of the conference and see whether anything could be salvaged for the world's hopes for peace.

One Witness in Bombing Case at L. R.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Only one defense witness testified today in the circuit court trial of Herbert Odell Monts, 17-year-old Negro charged in the bombing of a Negro student's home.

The Rev. O. W. Gibson, a neighbor to Monts, testified he visited Monts in city jail Feb. 19 and Monts' face was swollen and Monts claimed to have been kneed by a police officer.

Defense attorney Harold Flowers rested his case after this one witness was heard. The state rested earlier. Judge William J. Kirby said he would turn the case over to the jury this afternoon.

Prosecution testimony centered on alleged statements made by Monts after his arrest for the Feb. 9 blast at the home of Carlotta Walls, 16, one of five Negro students attending integrated Central High.

Milford Rannels, an FBI agent, testified today Monts told him the bombing intended to cause "commotion and a lot of publicity," which brought them from Britain, anchored Monday night off To-bago's Pigeon Point.

Baseball Owners in Conference

CHICAGO (AP)—Major league baseball holds its own top drawer conference of 16 owners today, two days before the Senate opens hearings on a bill that would limit their control of players.

Although the meeting was announced by John Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, it had been suggested by Commissioner Ford Frick. However, Frick insisted it was not an emergency session but originally had been planned for March in Florida. Only the top man of each club will attend.

The fact that the Senate's Anti-trust subcommittee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) has invited Frick and other baseball officials, including Branch Rickey, president of the Continental

Leading Giants Leery About Going on Road

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

If a road jinx wasn't enough to make things tough for San Francisco, the National League leading Giants now find that Bob Purkey has his whammy working again.

He beat them for the second time in two tries this season as the Cincinnati Reds mauled San Francisco and four relievers for a 9-2 romp Monday night that trimmed the Giants' lead to one game over idle Pittsburgh.

It was the fourth defeat in three road games for the Giants, who managed a 3-0 record against Purkey last season after losing seven of eight to the big right hander over a four-year span going back to 1955.

Third-place Milwaukee's game with Los Angeles was postponed because of rain, after 1 1/2 scoreless innings, and St. Louis came from behind three times for a 5-3 decision at Philadelphia in the only other action scheduled in the NL.

In the American League, Baltimore has first place all to itself for the first time in the Orioles' modern history after beating Kansas City 2-1 in the only game scheduled. It was the fifth straight success for the Orioles and gave them a half-game edge over Chicago after breaking a deadlock with the White Sox.

The fourth place Reds put away their 11th victory in their last 13 games with single runs in each of their first three frames. That chased Jones (4-3), who has suffered all his losses on the road.

Purkey (3-1) gave up a dozen hits, but didn't walk a man and blanked the Giants over the last six innings for his third consecutive victory. The Reds, who had 16 hits, made it 7-2 in a four-run fifth with the help of Gus Bell's two-run triple and two of the Giants' four errors.

The Cards, out-hit 11-9, shook off Sunday's no-hit defeat by Don Cardwell at Chicago with three runs in the ninth for their second victory in 15 road games. Daryl Spencer twice brought them from behind, squaring it 2-all with his solo sixth home run in the seventh inning and then making it 3-3 with a double in the ninth. A sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Carl Sawatski scored the clincher. Joe Cunningham's third single got the final run home.

Eddie Broglio (1-1) won't get in relief after Wilmer Mizell had given up 10 hits, one Al Dark's bases-empty homer.

League, to testify pointed up the connection between the meeting and the bill.

Ricky will not, of course, be present at the major league session. His league favors the Kefauver bill. Phil Wrigley, president of the Chicago Cubs, is the only major league owner in favor of it.

Frick blasted the bill as "vicious, discriminatory and disastrous" and added that it was "absolutely unacceptable because it goes beyond antitrust exemptions and attempts to spell out operating rules for baseball."

However, the Kefauver bill is only one of many matters expected to be discussed at the top-level baseball meeting. Frick and American League President Joe Cronin will attend.

Jordan Gets Licked; Sugar in Trouble

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Welterweight champion Don Jordan got a bloody nose and his second straight non-title licking by insisting on fighting in Baltimore Monday night. Sugar Ray Robinson is in hot water today for not doing any fighting at all.

Jordan was outboxed and outpunched by Candy McFarland in a non-title 10-rounder while Robinson—officials say—didn't even tell any one he wasn't going to show up for his scheduled 10-round co-feature with Pedro Gonzales of Rankin, Pa.

The Maryland Athletic Commission ordered Robinson and his manager, George Gainford, to appear for a hearing Thursday.

Jordan's next boxing date is May 27 in Las Vegas against Benny (Kid) Paret. His title will be on the line.

Jordan felt his fight with McFarland was close enough that he could have lost but not unanimously. On a five-point for the round winner basis, referee Eddie Leonard scored it for McFarland 47-44 and the two judges 46-45.

"I'd like to fight him again and for the title," said McFarland, a 20-year-old Philadelphian winning his 17th fight out of 24. "I knew I had him licked in the third round."

McFarland, who weighed a half pound less than Jordan's 149, drew blood from the champ's nose in the eighth round and almost knocked him down with a right in the next.

Jordan had insisted on going ahead with the fight even though the National Boxing Association and the Las Vegas promoters protested it was too soon before the title match.

The fights in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium originally were scheduled for Saturday night and postponed because of rain.

At first, promoter Al Flora reported this was given by Gainford as the excuse for Robinson's absence. Flora said the manager told him by phone they didn't realize they had been rescheduled for Monday night.

Orioles Finally Make It to Top of League

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles, a bunch of castoffs and kids, finally made it. They are all alone in first place for the first time since returning to the American League six years ago.

They did it by completing a three-week drive to the cellar with a 2-1 victory at Kansas City Monday night, winning their fifth in a row on home runs by Jackie Brandt and rookie Ron Hansen that backed a six-hit pitching job by Arnie Portocarrero and Jack Fisher.

It was the only game scheduled in the AL and broke a deadlock with Chicago. The Birds now lead the defending champion White Sox by a half game.

In the National League, Cincinnati trounced San Francisco 9-2 and trimmed the Giants' first-place edge over idle Pittsburgh to one game. St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 5-3 with three ninth-inning runs. Rain postponed the only other game scheduled, Los Angeles at Milwaukee, after 1 1/2 scoreless innings.

The Orioles have won 14 of 19 after losing five of their first six, and this was their sixth straight road victory. Hansen supplied the clincher with his second major league home run in the fifth inning. Brandt's homer, his second in the AL after a winter deal with San Francisco, came in the first.

He had two of the five hits off Jose "Ned" Garver (0-3). Portocarrero (3-0), in right hander with only one winning season in his six year career, had a no-hitter for four innings and a three-hit shutout for six frames. He gave way to Fisher 21, after a leadoff single by Whitey Herzog in the seventh, when the A's added a walk and Dick Williams' single for their run.

There were 2,340,000 arrests made in the year 1959, according to reports from cities with populations over 2,500.

DOROTHY DIX

Let Us Be True
to One Another

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I love my husband. When I was pregnant he took up with another woman. I read in his diary where he said he was in love with her. I got after him. He says I killed his love by reading his diary.

I would do anything to get him back. He wants a divorce. I know he still sees the woman. He has been staying with his grandmother but he loves our son and comes to see him every week. He looks through my things. Once he found a letter I had written another man. He laid him out and gave me a box of candy for my birthday. I pretend to cry. He put his arms around me, kisses me and call me sweet. But he still wants that divorce and will not stay with me. What to do? I love him so much. Help me! — Desperate

Dear Desperate: Your letter reveals that you and your husband still love one another. Say you'll forgive him and hope that in turn he'll forgive you. Matthew Arnold, the English poet, expressed it so beautifully in that line, "Ah love, let us be true to one another."

Certainly your husband shouldn't have taken up with another woman when you were pregnant but you never should have read his diary nor he rummaged through your letters. Show him this column. I'm sending you my leaflet on "Marital Harmony."

Dear Dorothy Dix:

We were a devoted family. My husband, myself and my daughter before she married. I gave her everything, a good education, the best of clothes. We always went everywhere together.

Since she married this young man (an only child tied to his mother's apron strings) things have been different. She never calls her home. She has to please his mother and others related to him. I cannot see how a girl could go against her own family

Alfred Raps the State Department

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark.) has accused the State Department of being a "source of internationalist propaganda."

Speaking yesterday to a church group, Alford said he felt "that our State Department is determined to abandon our national government and turn our sovereignty into a world super-government."

Alford said that George Washington had cautioned against political connections with Europe. And Alford added, "If we had not had those political connections, there would have been no spy plane incident."

GOPs May Have Contest at Convention

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A faint hint from New York spurred speculation today that the Republicans, just like the Democrats, may feature a contest at their presidential nominating convention in July.

The hint came as Democrats entered their final week of primary hustling. Maryland votes Tuesday and Oregon on Friday.

L. Judson Morhouse, New York Republican chairman, provided the hint in a statement Sunday. He said Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York "should not be ruled out of consideration for the presidency."

Some political observers thought this meant New York intended to nominate Rockefeller as a favorite son candidate at the Republican convention in Chicago.

But Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the clear favorite now, seemed to have little doubt of the outcome, either at the Republican or the Democratic convention.

He reportedly predicted that he would be the Republican nominee and Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts the Democratic nominee.

In his statement from Albany, Morhouse said Rockefeller was correct in resisting pressure to accept the vice presidential nomination.

"If we are honest with ourselves, we must recognize that the place for that broad appeal, reaching beyond party lines, is at the head of the ticket," Morhouse said. "Its absence there cannot find or claim compensation elsewhere."

Rockefeller, in a letter to Republican National Chairman Thurston B. Morton Saturday, had said he would not attend the national convention. He did not want the delegates to misconstrue attendance as willingness to accept second place, Rockefeller said.

This emphatic resistance drew support from Nixon on a television program early today. He said Rockefeller's rejection "means the office is not downgraded by being resisted and then offered to a second man who is obviously second choice."

Kennedy and Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon left the Maryland campaign trail to seek votes in Oregon. Nixon supporters also opened a radio and television drive to get out the vote for their man on the Republican ballot Friday.

Nixon is unopposed, but the Democratic ballot lists Kennedy, Morse, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota. Humphrey, however, withdrew from the race after his defeat by Kennedy in West Virginia last week.

Neither Symington nor Johnson, who campaigned in Oregon, Symington, in fact, issued a statement in Washington Sunday boosting Morse.

Elks Elect a Texarkanian

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Boland Phillips of Texarkana is the new Arkansas state Elks Assn. president.

He was installed yesterday. Other new officers include: vice presidents, Dr. Ben Saltzman of Mountain Home and Hugh Martin of North Little Rock; secretary, Sam Milazzo of Texarkana; treasurer, Binnie Swafford of Texarkana; Tiler, R. E. Johnson of Jonesboro, and chaplain, Herman Tuck of Texarkana.

Plane Lands Safely

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Braniff International Airways plane with 32 passengers and five crew members landed safely with a blown-out tire Sunday.

Pilot R. W. Shields, 55, said the tire blew as the four-engine DC-8 took off for a flight to New Orleans.

Shields made five low passes over the Kansas City airport so mechanics on the ground could make sure the remaining tire on the dual wheels of the right landing gear was all right.

Then he landed the plane gently and stopped it within 2,000 feet by reversing the propellers.

Air Force Claims Bill in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to enable the Air Force to settle claims of more than $5,000 resulting from the crash of a jet bomber in Little Rock, Ark., is before President Eisenhower.

The House passed the bill, sponsored by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) and Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark.), yesterday. It had passed the Senate previously.

The measure would remove a limit of $5,000 on civilian claims the Air Force can settle for the Little Rock crash, in which two civilians died and 100 homes were damaged or destroyed last March.

Testimony in Utilities Consolidation

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — W. R. (Will) Stephens, chairman of the board of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., testified today that the proposed merger of Consolidated Gas Utilities Corp. into Ark La would not affect rates already established in the three states in which Ark La now operates.

Stephens told the Arkansas Public Service Commission that Ark La would carry its policy of industrial expansion and low rates into Oklahoma and Kansas.

It was his first appearance as a witness before PSC.

He emphasized that the Oklahoma and Kansas division of Ark La would "stand on its own feet" without reference to the company obligations in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas.

The Kansas and Oklahoma Corporation Commissions already have approved the proposed merger as have the stockholders of the two companies.

Stephens said that Ark La sold 270 billion cubic feet of gas in 1959 at an average price of 24 cents which, he said, was equivalent to the wellhead price of gas in the new offshore fields in the Gulf of Mexico.

Negro to Trial for Dynamiting

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Hubert Odell Monts, 17, went on trial today for the Feb. 9 dynamiting of a Negro student's home.

Monts is one of two Negroes charged in the explosion that damaged the home of Carlotta Walls, a pupil at Little Rock Central High School.

He is free on $15,000 bond. Judge William J. Kirby today turned down two motions by defense attorney Harold Flowers.

Flowers first moved to quash the proceedings, then to transfer the case to juvenile court.

After the motions were denied, selection of a jury began.

Monts has been held in lieu of $15,000 bond.

Kirby previously denied a request for postponement of trials of both men until after this summer's elections.

Klan Organizer to Face Trial

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Dale Birdsell of Pine Bluff, Ark., who describes himself as a Ku Klux Klan organizer, faces trial next Tuesday on five bad-check charges.

The Arkansas man pleaded innocent yesterday to the false pretense indictments returned by a grand jury in state court. He is accused of giving worthless checks to five Montgomery merchants.

Birdsell testified at a preliminary hearing earlier that he wrote the checks for equipment for a Ku Klux Klan office here.

He explained that he expected the checks and that he told salesmen in purchasing the merchandise that he had no money in the bank to cover them.

THE STORY: Riley Buckner returns to Signal after five years in prison. After he gets off a freight train he is captured by men from the Hatchet ranch who mistake him for Duke Jordan, the man Buckner came to see. Spence Rigby, brother of Lark Rigby who owned Hatchet, is heading the captors.

CHAPTER II

Buckner saw Tull stand up, tall and lean, his features half shadowed by his hat brim so that only his slash of a mouth and his heavy nose were plain in that death mask of a face. Tull had been Hatchet foreman a long time, a tough rained for a tough crew. Tull said, "Spence, don't let him go!"

Rigby looked puzzled. "By his own say so, he ain't on our side," Tull said. "By my book, that makes him against us. That freight hasn't pulled out yet, from the sound, let's put him on it. But let's work him over first. Fist and boot. So if he gets the notion of coming back he'll remember he shouldn't."

Rigby thought this over and a

Seeks Reason for Plane Accident

KERRYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Navy investigators today sought the reason why a jet plane went out of control, narrowly missed a church filled with Sunday worshippers and crashed into a pasture, killing the pilot.

A Memphis Naval Air Station spokesman identified the dead man as Lt. Cmdr. Dan Palmer, 37, of Memphis. Palmer was about to land the plane, an FJ-4 Fury fighter, when it unaccountably lost altitude.

He heard them move. He began groping across the yard toward the house. The Lanes had no dog in the old days; he hoped they had none now. He at the Frontier. Sam Tull was there. Spence seems to be speaking for Hatchet now. I take it he and Lark patched it up."

She shook her head. "Not as pleased look came into his eyes. "Sam," he said slowly, "I believe you make sense."

Behind Buckner, big Duke York grunted, and he heard the crash of a bootsale on the floor. He knew then where his only chance lay. He had six against him in this small room, with four of them between him and the alley door. He didn't lunge in that direction. They would have been expecting that. Instead, he charged straight at the table and gripped its edge and tipped it against Rigby and Tull, dumping them over backwards, chairs and all. The lamp crashed in to rattle as he'd feared it might. Someone cursed as two of the Hatchet hands collided. Rigby's voice rose shrill from the floor. "Don't shoot, any of you. Block that door!"

Buckner could see the dim outline of the one window with its drawn shade. He jammed his hat down light on his head, folded his arms before his face, landing in the alley in a tangle of shade, broken sash, and splintered glass. He got to his feet and began running in the feeble moonlight. Behind him a door banged open. Glancing back, he saw a man dimly silhouetted. He heard Spence Rigby shout, "Get around to the other end of the alley. Head him off!"

Men came tumbling through the doorway. He watched them, wanting to run but knowing that his footfalls would draw gunfire. He began walking rapidly, hugging shadows. Earlier tonight he'd wished he had a sheepskin coat; now he wished for a six-shooter. He stopped suddenly and peered about. He had reached the fence behind Widow Lane's place. Boots beat along the alley from the Frontier; he thought he heard boots at the far end of the alley toward which he headed. There must be a gate somewhere in the fence, but he didn't bother feeling for it. He grasped the top of the fence, pulled himself up, and slipped over the other side, dropping into the Lane's back yard. He heard men out there in the alley.

"That you, Rufus?" One of the Darby brothers speaking. "Did he get by you?"

"He never got out of this alley."

Another came running up, halted. "He must have cut into somebody's yard," Spence Rigby said, pointing. "Spread out, boys. Comb this neighborhood. He's somewhere close by."

He heard them move. He began groping across the yard toward the house. The Lanes had no dog in the old days; he hoped they had none now. He at the Frontier. Sam Tull was there. Spence seems to be speaking for Hatchet now. I take it he and Lark patched it up."

She shook her head. "Not as any of the house from five years ago, and it seemed to him that the room here at the corner was Dorcas'.

Someone fumbled at the back fence. An annoyed voice said, "Gale's barred from the inside."

"Give me a boost," someone else said. "I'll climb the fence." Buckner heard a rasping, scuffling sound. He supposed that other men might have crept around to the front of the house by now. He made his choice, putting his hand to the window and hoping desperately that it would be unlocked. The sash gave to his touch. He raised the window, eased into the room, and quietly put the window down. He made out a bed, a bureau, a night stand and saw, dimly, the girl sitting up in the bed. "Dorcas!" he whispered. "Don't scream. Whatever you do, don't scream!"

"The girl said, 'I keep a gun on the night stand. I've got it covering you right now. Sing out your name.'"

It was not quite Dorcas' voice. The shade of difference made the voice Pru's. He had guessed wrong about this room, "Hatchet Buckner," he said. "Hush down, Pru. I'm being hunted."

He knelt by the window and peered out. He thought he could see someone groping the yard. His eyes arched from watching. Finally there seemed to be no moving shadow, but he couldn't be sure. Behind him, it sounded as though Pru were sobbing. He'd probably scared her half to death. Let's see, she'd been about 17 when he'd left, which made her 22 now. Just the same, seeing a man climbing through the window must have been a shock.

"Don't be frightened," he said softly. "I'll be leaving soon. I think they're gone now."

"I'm not frightened," she said in a choked voice. "I'm laughing. I'm trying to cover it up by keeping a corner of the blanket jammed in my mouth."

He felt utterly foolish. "It's no laughing matter," he said severely.

"Yes, it is," she said. "You begging me not to scream, when you were within a second of having the top of your head blown off."

"I thought this was Dorcas' room."

She sobered at once. "Dorcas isn't here."

He peered into the yard again. He was quite sure now that whoever had climbed the fence had gone on. "Pru, I'm sorry about this," he said. "And some puzzle I came in on the freight tonight. Hatchet hands jumped me and took me to Spence Rigby."

She peered into the yard again. He was quite sure now that whoever had climbed the fence had gone on. "Pru, I'm sorry about this," he said. "And some puzzle I came in on the freight tonight. Hatchet hands jumped me and took me to Spence Rigby."

She shook her head. "Not as of this afternoon. No, Lark was in town. He came into our store and told Maw. He couldn't be trading with us any more. For— for reasons. Spence came down the street just as Lark walked out. I saw them. They passed each other without a word."

"Then nothing adds up," he said. He pondered a moment. "Pru, is there any reason Duke Jordan should have been getting on the freight tonight?"

"None that I know of."

"Can you give me any idea what's going on around here?"

"Anything could be happening about now," she said. "That old trouble between Hatchet and Boxed J has come to a head. Gully Jordan fenced off that wedge of land between him and Lark Rigby not long ago. You'll remember that Lark always used that strip as a right-of-way when he brought his fall gather to town for shipping. Lark threatened to tear down the fence by the end of the week. That would be today. The last thing he bought from Maw was a supply of ammunition."

He turned her information over in his mind. He was worried until he remembered that Hatchet-Boxed J trouble was no longer a concern of his. He had come back for one reason only—to stand in the court room again, but first he had to escape Spence Rigby's men. Carefully he raised the window. He thrust out his head and listened. All lay quiet. "So long, Pru," he said. "And thanks."

He heard a rustling of covers and turned and made out that she had climbed from bed and was drawing a wrapper over her nightgown. She came to him and laid a hand on his arm.

Her hair was done up in paper curlers, but in spite of that she was prettier than he'd remembered. Pretty, almost, as Dorcas.

"What brought you back, Ry?" she asked. "What are you looking for?"

He shrugged. "Something I lost five years ago."

"Duke?" she asked.

He nodded.

"Go away, Ry," she said.

"There's nothing here for you." He had never known her to be so intense. He had remembered her only as Dorcas' kid sister, half child, half woman, usually clattering up the parlor when a man wanted to sit on an evening with his girl. She had been nobody to him then, but she was his friend now. She could have screamed or she could have shot, and she had done neither.

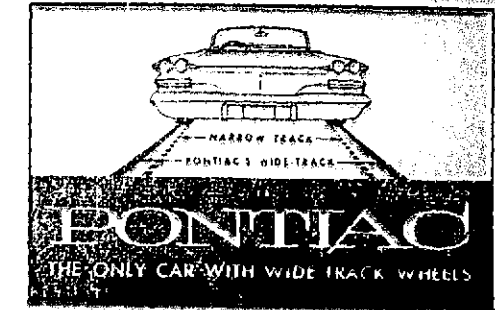

He patted her hand. "Thanks again, Pru," he said. He slipped through the window and drew the sash down behind him and moved away from the house.

converted bus, was the most active of the five candidates for governor yesterday. But H. E. Williams of Walnut Ridge joined the attack on a proposed school-district amendment. Joe C. Hardin of Grady struck again at the school proposal and Ally. Gen. Bruce Bennett blasted Gov. Orval E. Faubus again.

Faubus, who is seeking a fourth term, has not yet defended Amendment 52, which would allow closing of schools to avoid integration. He pushed it through the 1959 Legislature. It is up for a popular vote in November.

Millsp, speaking in Harrison, said he could reduce or eliminate the income tax by doing away with corruption in government. He pledged to cut taxes wherever possible and also promised a reduction in auto license fees to $2.50 for all cars more than three years old.

Bennett also has proposed a license tag reduction, to $7.

Millsp advocated limiting a governor to one four-year term. Hardin also has proposed a limit on the number of terms for one man.

Other parts of the Millsp platform included more health assistance for the aged and abolition of a one-cent increase in state sales tax.

Millsp denied statements he said were circulating that he was "a stalking horse, a dark horse, a hatchet man."

Bennett, speaking in Little Rock, charged that Faubus would sue "whoop-de-do television extravaganzas" to cloud the issues this summer.

He also said that a recent dinner at the governor's mansion, which Bennett earlier labeled a fund-raising affair, netted $76,000 for the Faubus campaign.

Hardin and Williams both struck at Amendment 52, which Bennett also has attacked.

Speaking in Pine Bluff, Hardin said it would result in so many closed schools the state would not have a school system left.

He said that a district which closed its schools to avoid integration still would have to pay teachers, meet bond payments and pay for building upkeep. For this reason, he said, he is more opposed to it now than when he first attacked it last week.

Williams, in a statement issued in Little Rock, said the amendment would destroy the public schools. He termed it "another bit of Faubusism which must be soundly defeated."

Hardin and Bennett both touched briefly on industrialization. Hardin charged that Faubus had a secret list of industries which looked, but did not settle, in Arkansas.

Bennett, noting 1960 census figures showing a population drop, said, "The Census Bureau cut the props out from under his (Faubus') industrial job claim with their reports." Faubus has said that the state's industrialization program has halted the movement of people from the state.

Moscow Says Space Ship on Course

By A. I. GOLDBERG

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviets say their 4½-ton dummy-manned space ship—the biggest satellite ever launched—is whizzing around the earth on course.

"There soon will be a man in space," the Soviets said.

Hurled aloft by a supersonic rocket, the ship was reported sending back signals confirming "the good agreement between its actual orbit and the calculated one" for its flight around the globe every 91 minutes.

Dr. Viktor Bazzekin, director of the Moscow Planetarium, conceded there are still problems to be solved before sending up a live astronaut—the main one being how to get him back to earth safely.

The official news agency Tass said no attempt will be made to retrieve the dummy passenger riding in a pressurized cabinet with "all the necessary equipment for a future manned space flight."

Soviet scientists said the 2½-ton cabinet would be separated from the satellite after the "necessary information" is received but would burn up in the atmosphere as it drops.

The Soviets gave only skimpy details Sunday in announcing the launching of their latest space vehicle on the eve of the Paris summit conference.

I. I. Shelyakov, head of the scientific methodological department of the Moscow Planetarium, said "the flight of this ship will go down in the annals of astronautics as one of the last steps before mankind's emergence into outer space."

Prof. Vladimir Dobrounov, a top space man, said the launching was linked with the "space-rocket test firings" into the Pacific last January. In London, a spokesman for the British Interplanetary society estimated the rocket propelling the Soviet ship was two or three times more powerful than the U.S. Atlas and Titan rockets.

The rocket went into orbit approximately 200 miles up and began sending back beeps that sounded like a far distant train whistle. The Sputnik is visible to the naked eye in hours of darkness. It was first sighted in the United States at 4:10 a.m. by moonwatchers in Dayton, Ohio.

"Analysis of the initial data received from the satellite ship shows that the installed instrumentation and equipment are functioning normally," Tass said.

The satellite is fitted with special radio equipment to relay to ground stations data on the operations of its scientific and measuring instruments in the hermetically sealed cabin which are powered by chemical and solar batteries.

The exact time and place of the launching were not disclosed.

California is expected to be the most populated state in the year 1970. Projections estimate it will have 20,296,000 residents by that time, a quarter of a million more than estimated for New York.

Foreign Aid Measure Is Signed by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has signed a bill authorizing a $4,086,700,000 foreign aid program and said he was gratified by congressional action on the measure, the White House announced today.

The total for the fiscal year starting July 1 is close to the figure he asked.

Eisenhower, in signing the bill before leaving Saturday for the summit meeting in Paris, said in a statement the act embodies essentially all of the request he had put forward as necessary for successful continuation of the mutual security program.

"With one regrettable exception, the Congress has resisted the addition of amendments which would adversely affect foreign relations or impair the administration of the program," Eisenhower said.

Acting White House press secretary Wayne Hawks said this was a reference to the freedom of navigation amendment. This takes a slap at United Arab Republic restrictions on shipping in the Suez Canal.

The bill Eisenhower signed merely puts a ceiling on the amount that may be appropriated for foreign aid. The actual appropriation still is to be made, and there has been much speculation that Congress may reduce the appropriation below the amount authorized.

The authorization is $68,700,000 less than Eisenhower had asked.

Reds Protest Plane Over E. Germany

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union protested in notes published today that an unidentified high-level plane flying in from West Germany violated the air space of Communist East Germany on May 5.

The notes to the commanders of the U.S., British and French forces in West Germany claimed that the plane crossed the East German frontier 10 miles southwest of Boitzenburg at a height of about 5,500 feet and flew for 50 miles into East German territory.

The notes suggested Soviet fighters could have shot the plane down but that the Soviets "considered it possible on this occasion to refrain therefrom."

The notes were sent Sunday by the Soviet commander in East Germany, Gen. I. I. Yakubovsky. The Soviet news agency Tass made them public.

The incident came four days after the Soviets shot down an American U2 reconnaissance aircraft 1,400 miles inside the Soviet Union.

Yakubovsky said Soviet patrol fighters gave the trespasser over East Germany "frequent recognized signals to land."

He did not comply with these demands, but returned to Western Germany," he reported.

The Soviet commander demanded that the Western Allies take the necessary measures to prevent the use of West German territory for violation of the East German frontier. He warned that if any more planes trespass, "the Soviet command will be forced to adopt the most stringent measures for the curbing of such violations."

Ferguson Named by History Group

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas History Commission has named John L. Ferguson, 34, assistant professor of history at Arkansas Tech, as its executive director.

Ferguson, who will receive his doctorate from Tulane University in New Orleans May 30, will take office July 1.
